Code of Conduct

Appropriate behaviour and etiquette for members of the Club

Subject to the broad examples of Misconduct, this code of conduct specifically states that the following are examples of appropriate etiquette

All the rules of the Pitch & Putt Ireland apply, without exception. It is the duty of every member to become familiar with all such rules.

All local rules, as displayed in a clubhouse or on a score card must be adhered to. It is the duty of every member to become familiar with all local rules and to all changes to the local rules.

Before commencement of play in any competition the member must pay the entry fee.

Competitors must always adhere to the Dress Code – failure to do so will lead to disqualification from competition.

Players must be punctual, turn up on time and register before their allotted time to be eligible to compete in any Club event.

While playing on the course:

Show respect to fellow players and Club Officials.

Always avoid slow play.

Repair plug marks on the greens.

No player shall play until the group in front have reached the next tee box.

If a match fails to keep its place and loses in distance more than two clear holes on those in front it may be passed on request being made.

Players searching for a ball should signal oncoming players to pass them.

Always repair divots and any plug marks you see on the green, whether left by you or others.

Bunkers must be carefully raked after your stroke. Leave the rake inside the bunker afterwards.

While playing in competition:

The number of shots must be recorded by the marker of the scorecard.

Competitors should return all cards in competitions.

Scorecards must be signed and have correct handicap and returned to the scorecard box provided.

Local rules posted in the clubhouse or on entry to the course must be observed without exception.

Note: The above is not meant to be an exclusive list of rules or etiquette. Any of the above may be amended by Ardnacrusha Pitch and Putt Club at a properly convened meeting or at an AGM or EGM of members.
